Anti-Aging and Aesthetic Medicine Meets Wellness

Organized by

ANTI-AGING | REGENERATIVE MEDICINE | AESTHETICS | WELLNESS

A4M THAILAND

Anti-aging medicine aims to maximize the human potential for physical, social and mental wellness towards optimizing the human aging process. It is a wellness-oriented model that focuses on clinical advanced preventive medicine. Evidence-based and well documented by peer-reviewed journals. Its diagnostic and treatment practices are scientifically supported. An increasing number of physicians and practitioners are now embracing the anti-aging paradigm, believing in its ability to transform healthcare for the better.

The annual BCAARM is the premier Anti-Aging event in Asia, gathering an exclusive collection of world-class speakers to present a multitude of evidence-based science, research and extensive medical program/protocols in the realm of anti-aging, regenerative and aesthetics medicine.

Bringing in the internationally acclaimed Wellness Summit, this year would see a collective effort in addressing the goal of optimizing longevity and vitality. Seeing how lifestyle diseases are now the largest cause of mortality globally and preventable by lifestyle choices, wellness living is essential.

The theme this year uniquely converge the billion dollars anti-aging and trillion dollars wellness industry into a single platform. Though seemingly divergent in nature, the two industries are now naturally converging-medicine and wellness-governed by the same aim of longevity and vitality. By bringing together Wellness Summit this year, it is with the hopes that we foster and nurture the collective growth of both industries that result in their convergence for a sustainable future. The participation of the wellness industry will have a decidedly prominent impact on the anti-aging industry for years to come, and will help shape the future of medicine.
